

CCIG

Englewood, CO Headquarters Relocation

Size

28,000 square feet

Project Highlights

Two-story atrium and reception area with custom, hanging sculpture

Modern and collaborative space for employees, clients, and visitors

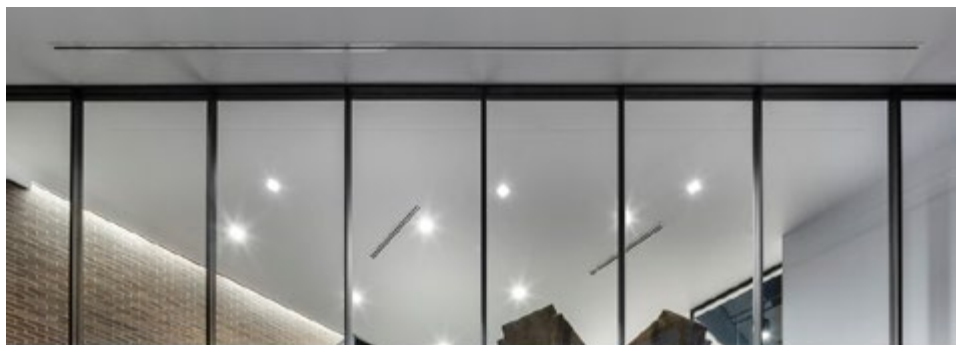

Flexible, adjoining meeting spaces with demountable walls and operable glass partitions for all-hands meetings and events

Interconnecting stair designed to foster connectivity between groups

Amenity areas with central break rooms and gathering spaces

Services Provided

Full service interior architecture and design; Experiential graphic design: branding and signage

CCIG, a family-owned insurance brokerage firm, engaged IA to design a unique headquarters space for its growing company and to pass on to the next generation of ownership. CCIG had purchased an early 1990s building and sought to transform the space into a modern and collaborative office space. IA provided a variety of services to complete the full interior renovation.

Upon entry, the new, two-story atrium and reception area features a custom, hanging sculpture. The unique space provides clients and visitors with a striking first impression before heading to the workspace on the opposite side of the building.

The modern and collaborative workspace features flexible, adjoining meeting spaces with demountable walls and operable glass partitions for all-hands meetings and events. IA designed an interconnecting stair to foster connectivity between work groups that had been accustomed to occupying a single floor in their previous space. Amenity areas with central break rooms and gathering spaces enable collaboration and socialization for employees, clients, and visitors alike.