This new Boston, MA private equity firm engaged IA in the design of an office space at 888 Boylston Street. The design features custom millwork panels and wood ceiling features with accent lighting for a residential yet sophisticated feel. Staff utilize private, double-glazed offices—varying in size and interior/perimeter location based on seniority—with administrative support in nearby, open workstations. Conference and boardrooms feature sweeping views from the 14th floor and employees utilize the cafe for breaks and casual collaboration. In addition to the elaborate millwork panels, extensive consultant coordination was required for chilled beams and value engineering.
